(1888PressRelease) October 03, 2010 - In celebration of Financial Planning Week, Annapolis-based financial planning and investment management firm Hopkins Investment Management has launched a new website that provides useful resources and advice to educate the general public on important financial planning topics.

Available on this free financial planning resource are numerous articles offerings advice and guidance on managing money and on finding a trustworthy investment manager. In addition, clients of Hopkins Investment Management can login to a personal portal that provides: quarterly reports held in an online document safe; full analysis of client's holdings, including unrealized gains and losses for each account; summary of total net worth with access to more detailed reports on a client's entire financial position.

"We are excited about what this newly designed website means for our clients and for anyone looking to advance their finances," says Martin Hopkins, president and CEO of Hopkins Investment Management. "There are millions of Americans still unsure about how to save for retirement, or whether it's a smart idea to work with a financial planner, or how to invest their money in this economy. This new website and the dedicated and experienced staff at Hopkins Investment Management can provide answers that will lower their stress levels and secure positive futures for their families."

A proud member and contributor of the National Association of Personal Financial Advisors (NAPFA), the leading U.S. organization dedicated to the advancement of fee-only comprehensive financial planning, Hopkins believes strongly in the importance of fee-only financial planning, and supports Financial Planning Week as a vehicle to raise awareness and stimulate action. Established nine years ago to inspire individuals to set financial goals and foster smarter financial decisions, Financial Planning Week falls this year between October 4 and 10. You can learn more at <http://www.fpanet.org/WhatisFinancialPlanning/FinancialPlanningWeek/WelcometoFinancialPlanningWeek>.

"I truly believe in the importance of proper investment management, and the profound impact it can have on people's lives," continues Hopkins. "The sincere hope of everyone at Hopkins Investment Management is that more people stop to consider their current financial situations and take the right steps toward ensuring a successful future. We are honored and proud to be able to contribute to that in any way we can."

The free resources of Hopkins Investment Management are available on the new website at <http://www.hopkinsim.com>.
